

REQUEST FOR FIRST NATIONS LEGAL DEFENCE FUNDRAISING SUPPORT

Our mission is to raise legal defence funds to assist Indigenous Peoples who enforce their rights and title to protect their traditional territories and the natural environment. For your application to be considered, it must fall within RAVEN's mandate.

Your application, once completed, will be reviewed by RAVEN's Legal Advisory Committee, which will make a recommendation to the RAVEN Board of Directors. The RAVEN Board of Directors will make the decision whether RAVEN can and will support your application.

The RAVEN Legal Advisory Committee will review your application based on the following criteria: (a) alignment with RAVEN's mandate to support Indigenous rights and governance, access to justice for Indigenous Peoples and protection of the environment for the benefit of all Canadians b) precedential value, meaning the whether the case raises relatively new issues and the extent to which the case has the ability to advance Aboriginal and environmental law; (c) feasibility: is there enough time for RAVEN to make a difference in the case, is there enough financial and community support from other sources to see the case through to completion; (d) overall anticipated costs of the case to completion, and your ability to contribute financially and/or secure other partners in funding the case (e) clear evidence of community support for your case, including General Membership Resolutions, BCRs, petitions and other indicators of strong community support.

To be considered by RAVEN, the application must answer all of the questions below.

Documents to include to ensure that your application is complete:

- Lawyer's Letter of Support (required) – See Section 8.a
- Additional Materials (not necessary but helpful for our fundraising) - Please include news clippings, maps and diagrams as relevant to Sections 5, 6, 7 and 9

When you have checked that your application is complete, please email to Fundraising Campaigns Director, Ana Simeon, ana@raventrust.com or get in touch with Ana about alternative ways of submitting the application. Phone number 250-383-2331.

b.) Partner Contribution

We expect that fundraising by RAVEN will not cover the full cost of litigation or other more intensive legal work. We often expect a partner contribution towards your application budget (on a case by case basis). As partners working with RAVEN, we would like an idea of what your contribution towards the campaign would be, either in the form of monetary support, legal pro bono work or expert contributions.

Your expected Partner Contribution commitment:

10.) POTENTIAL WEAKNESSES IN CASE

Please identify any weaknesses or potential risks with your legal case you have encountered so far or expect to encounter in the future. Identifying weaknesses in a claim can help RAVEN to properly tailor its fundraising strategy, and will not preclude a claim from being funded.

Note to Partner: All information disclosed to RAVEN through the application process will be kept confidential.

If your request is accepted, we will collaborate on an Agreement setting out expectations between RAVEN and your Nation. This is a non-binding agreement regarding communications and working arrangements that will help guide our partnership.

RAVEN may be unable to continue its support for your Nation if the nature of your legal project changes or if the budget proves insufficient to complete your work. Wherever possible, please advise RAVEN in advance of any changes to your legal project or to the budget.

By signing your name below, the applicant or its authorized agent:

- Guarantees that all the information in this application is accurate;
