

DEFEND THE TREATIES

Beaver Lake Cree Nation is going to court to defend its rights to hunt, fish, and practice their culture as guaranteed under Treaty No. 6

DEFEND THE TREATIES

Beaver Lake Cree Nation is suing the federal and provincial governments for failing to uphold their rights to fish, hunt, trap, and gather plants and medicines, as guaranteed by Treaty No. 6 and Canada's constitution. Beaver Lake Cree Nation is challenging the cumulative impacts of industrial development. Not one project, not one mine: all of them at once. After hearing Beaver Lake Cree Nation's case, the court will have to consider whether Canada and Alberta have authorized too much industrial development without meaningful regard to Treaty rights. A victory for Beaver Lake Cree Nation would become a strong precedent for other Treaty Nations—and all Canadians—to allow for the protection of land, air, and water for future generations.
